

USA based biotechnology consultant Dr. Poorva Dharkar delivered a lecture at Biotechnology, DAVV

Dr. Poorva Dharkar, who is alumni of School of biotechnology, DAVV (M.Sc. Biotechnology, 2002) visited the department after. She is presently working as a biotechnology consultant and also president of association of women in science at NIH, Bethesda chapter. She received many international awards for promotion of industry-academia interaction and promotion of biotechnology sector in USA.

She delivered a lecture on the scope of biosciences in different emerging areas. She interacted with the students and visited the labs of the school. She felt sense of satisfaction and pride on the teaching and research activities going on at the school.

She also reviewed the syllabus of course curricula of various M.Sc. programs running by the school. Head of the department Dr. Anjana Jajoo confer honour to her by providing certificate of appreciation for her work and invited lecture.

Dr. Dharkar, interacted with students and provided them career guidance and committed for any kind of possible support to the school.